

Distraction burglary - reducing repeat offences

A primary concern surrounding distraction burglary is the fear that the crime may be repeated. Neighbours working together build a stronger community, which generates reassurance for victims and deters the likelihood of repeat offences.

To establish safer communities, victims and their neighbours should be provided with an electronic neighbourhood watch network. Effective use will reduce the chances of the victim being caught off-guard again.

Communities throughout the UK that belong to the electronic neighbourhood watch network have reduced crime and the fear of crime – see Testimonials.

AlertBox is unique, with no competition worldwide. It enables people to communicate instantly with neighbours who also have AlertBoxes in their homes – simple.

An AlertBox network complements police work without imposing an extra workload. The AlertBox solution is:
